Explained two programs they offer. First, they are trying to build an investment cooperative to provide microloans and direct investments to native women in ag. What they are doing now is trying to determine the feasibility of the program. Second, is a summer paid internship program in partnership with the tribal colleges. Tribal Business Planning Grant

1:04:57 Presenter: Chair Gray
Chair Gray discussed the Tribal Business Planning Grant. Ms. Taylor provided the history of the Tribal Business Planning Grant where every Tribe gets one. She explained that many received amendments and some don't get completed. She said that less than 32 percent ever get completed and from that 4 percent actually go on to a project from the planning grant. She stated it doesn't appear to be the best use of the funds. She explained we are trying to review all programs to spur economic development. For the year 2022, four of the tribes completed it, two of the Tribes didn't start the project, one Tribe completed it, but it was under budget. Ms. Taylor provided further information regarding the grant.

Ms. Taylor stated this discussion is to provide a solution. She suggested perhaps each Tribe gets a grant per year. Director Osterman explained review and changes are being done in all programs in the Department of Commerce to make sure we are effective.

Chair Gray discussed that when the Tribal Business Planning Grant first started it was helpful, but you can only plan so much. Then they get shelved. The problem is the access to capital.

Ms. Taylor explained the ICED program funds are not in statute so there is a little flexibility. Vice Chair Sangrey explained that we could possibly leverage it with other programs. Vice-Chair Sangrey stated that in the past, the use of the funds has changed and now it effectively is only useable for feasibility studies. Director Osterman asked what addresses the greatest use of the funds? Would having a rotating fund be helpful?

Ms. Taylor explained that, for example, the Tribal Tourism Grants, they are shovel ready grants. Ms. Taylor asked what about a competitive process that will go to a shovel ready project? Chair Gray indicated that would be a good idea. Ms. Brown asked if it would be beneficial for the $240,000 to be used in a competitive grant project. Vice Chair Sangrey stated he would be against it as it is pitting Tribe against Tribe. Chair Gray stated that hopefully it wouldn't be the same Tribe receiving the grant every year so that other Tribes would have a chance at receiving it too. Ms. Taylor explained that she wasn't sure they could always make things equal, perhaps not make it that every Tribe would have to wait eight years. Director Osterman suggested perhaps allowing a rollover. Ms. Taylor explained that we can't carry the money over, we aren't allowed to roll money over from year to year. Director Osterman wants to highlight the economic successes that help build confidences in the legislators and communities. Director Osterman said the Department is open to other ideas. Ms. Taylor said in the future perhaps in the future, OICED programs will be in the base budget based on economic successes. Ms. Brown indicated Ms. Cushman has a video explaining the grant process and perhaps this is something OICED can do to assist with obtaining grants. In addition, get adjustments to our guidelines in the new grant program for barriers the Department doesn't see. Vice Chair Sangrey asked if we could provide the Tribes with $30,000 this year and combine it with $30,000 next year. Ms. Taylor said that we must have the funds out by the end of June of this year and that it can't carry over.

Mr. Askarbekov introduced himself and discussed more on the International Kok-Boru games. He stated they are looking for a lot for construction of a stadium to host the games in Montana and they are ready to negotiate. Discussion continued on the International Kok-Boru games. Ms. Willcockson asked the Commission if it make sense to have a small event here with one of the Tribes perhaps connecting it with a rodeo. They would need to decide by the end of June. Mr. Askarbekov stated that Montana is an ideal place to have these games due to the weather.

There is still $240,000 left for the Tribal Business Planning Grant which is still in discussion. Vice Chair Sangrey asked about making sure the entire budget is utilized. Ms. Jordt explained there is no specific STEDC budget. It is in the Department of Commerce base budget. Ms. Jordt said that if the $240,000 is not spent, it will go back, but Ms. Taylor ensured the funds would be spent. Director Osterman explained that there shouldn't be any concern and we will figure out how to deal with the $240,000. Ms. Taylor explained the NACS funds are statutory.

Ms. Willson explained the Department of Commerce partnered with the Office of Public Instruction, State Auditor's Office and the MT Council for Economic Education (MCEE). MCEE offers two games for students. One game is called the Stock Market game which is offered to junior high and high school students. The second game is called the Big Sky Biz Sim offered to high school students. Ms. Willson received a list from Jason Small, before he took leave, with schools on or near reservations. Ms. Willson contacted the schools to let them know about the program and to see if they were interested in participating in any of the programs. Ms. Willson contacted 29 schools and it appears four signed up for the Stock Market game. Director Osterman asked what Ms. Willson thought one of the barriers were to cross to get a higher level of participation. Ms. Willson stated that awareness. Ms. Willson also explained that there were some schools with different timing of semester and quarters that didn't align with the timing of the games. Commissioner Finley thought that partnering may be helpful as well to help with financial literacy.

Mr. Robinson said we are trying to find ways to help those applicants who were not awarded but they also can apply the next year.

Mr. Robinson said this year we made a program change with the IEF Jason Small and Liane Taylor is we stayed with reservation businesses only and with the Little Shell Tribe used their areas historically. Mr. Robinson said it was delayed some this year as there was a change internally with the process.

The NABAs all applied and received awards. Mr. Robinson said NABAs do a lot of financial literacy in their portfolio. They also help with the IEF application process and submission.

Tribal Tourism Update
